

Unique Lock Exercises

std::unique_lock

- What is the main difference between std::lock_guard and std::unique_lock?

std::unique_lock

- Rewrite the program from the last exercise to use a `unique_lock` instance instead of `lock_guard`
- In this program, is there any advantage to using `unique_lock` compared to using `lock_guard` in an inner scope?